

Information on the Move

The volume, variety, and velocity of organisational information is changing the game for governance and compliance. Applying a paper standard of policies and processes no longer works and it certainly doesn't scale. Governance functions must now be automated, and focus as much on defensible disposition as on retention; as much on data extraction as data archiving.

This course is founded on these best practices to provide you with a systematic approach for managing information assets and ensuring regulatory compliance. The information is applicable across all industries and is independent of any particular technology or vendor solution.

In this certificate of specialisation, you will learn:

- How to Develop a Digital Preservation Strategy
- How to Develop a Migration Strategy
- How to Conduct a Successful System Migration
- How to Decommission Legacy Systems
