

‘Tis the season to be giving

Datacentrix recently supported long-term client Senwes in its annual Christmas Tree Project, this time held in Klerksdorp, North West Province, at the Triest Training Centre for individuals with intellectual disabilities.

One of the leading agricultural companies in South Africa, Senwes started the Christmas Tree Project 11 years ago, with the aim of bringing goodwill to underprivileged children and adults. This year's event gathered more than 600 children and special-needs adults from organisations including Manu Dei, Triest Training Centre, Janie Schneider, Rethabile Children's Home, Viljoenskroon Youth Care, Khaya Tshepo, Daphne-Lee, Voetlig Kinders, House Adonai, and the Atamelang Child and Youth Care Centre, bringing festive cheer to all.

As well as making a monetary contribution to the presents handed out on the day, representatives from Datacentrix attended the event, spending some quality time with the attendees. Says Josua Taljaard, business unit manager at Datacentrix: "Datacentrix is 100 percent behind Senwes in its efforts to bring cheer to these children and adults in need. It is a fantastic opportunity for us all to contribute to the community, and celebrate the festive season."

“

Datacentrix is 100 percent behind Senwes in its efforts to bring cheer to these children and adults in need. It is a fantastic opportunity for us all to contribute to the community, and celebrate the festive season.”

